Excerpt: . . . chiming sea, A mingled breathing of grief and glee: Mans voice, unbroken by sighs, was there, Filling with triumph the sunny air; Of fresh green lands, and of pastures new, It sang, while the bark through the surges flew. But ever and anon A murmur of farewell Told, by its plaintive tone, That from womans lip it fell. Away, away, oer the foaming main!--This was the free and joyous strain, --There are clearer skies than ours: afar, We will shape our course by a brighter star; There arc plains whose verdure no foot hath pressd, And whose wealth is all for the first brave guest. But, alas! that we should go, Sang the farewell voices then, From the homesteads, warm and low, By the brook in the glen! K SONG OF EMIGRATION. 91 We will rear new homes, under trees that glow As if...
